August 7, 2020

This information applies to: Island Physicians, Nurse Practitioners, JRT Leaders, Testing Clinics and CPHO

Dr. Neil Rau will be on site at the QEH from August 10th to the 24th to provide locum support for Medical Microbiology and Infectious Diseases services. He can be reached through QEH switchboard or through the direct office line with email messaging 902-894-2515 and fax 902-620-0483. He can also be reached through GroupWise non-urgently at nvrau@ihis.org.

Dr. Rau completed his medical degree from the University of Toronto in 1991. He has certifications in Internal Medicine, Infectious Diseases, and Medical Microbiology. He will have clinic space available at Same Day Treatment on Thursdays for the two weeks he is here. He will also be providing on call support.

Dr. Rau is Medical Director of Infection Prevention and Control and Head of Microbiology services for Halton Healthcare network of hospitals in Oakville, Milton, and Georgetown Ontario. He is an assistant professor at the University of Toronto.

He looks forward to biking from the North Shore each day on his way to work.

Dr. German is expected to be off throughout this same period barring a major development. His clinics at QEH and PCH are scheduled to restart in September.

Thank you for welcoming Dr. Rau and continuing to support and utilize our Infection related services.
