Violence Prevention Training

Violence Prevention

Our Violence Prevention Team offers different levels of violence prevention training, depending on where you work, what acuity/risk level present, and what is appropriate and proportionate within your workplace.

Gentle Persuasive Approach (GPA)

GPA is a low-level violence prevention training that focuses primarily on dementia and cognitive impairment care. Low-level physical techniques are learned during this training.

Non-Violent Crisis Intervention (NVCI)

NVCI is a level of violence prevention training that focuses on trauma-informed care, verbal de-escalation, and intermediate disengagements and holds.

Advanced Code White (ACW)

ACW is the highest level of violence prevention our team offers. This training focuses on advanced physical techniques and restraints that are used once all other attempts of de-escalation have been exhausted. Team approach is paramount in the successful use of ACW.

Safety & Training

All training provided is intended to be used as least restrictive and last resort. Know your policies and procedures. Stay within your scope and know the limitations of your team. Never hesitate to call 911 if a situation escalates beyond the team's trained capabilities.
